Back From Italy NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle has returned to Algiers after visiting Italy to assist French troops, the British radio said today.

The admiralty in a terse communique announced her loss and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, disclosed in commons that she went down in the Anzio late in 1942 and took part in the bombardment of Pantelleria, Lampedusa and Sicily.

Beautification

Whatever plans the Canadian National Railways, the City Council and the Town Planning Board are considering or are to consider with regard to the area adjacent to the Macdonald hotel, it should be understood that the principle of beautification should underlie every such project.

And while the widening of roadways and other items of property development are essential and timely, the creation of beauty spots is by no means a secondary necessity. That is why it is to be hoped that the proposal for a park or a beautified open square north of the hotel will not be lost sight of, whatever other improvements are planned.

According to reliable information, the Macdonald Hotel is to be extended one hundred rooms. This will make the Macdonald one of the finest hotel structures in Canada. Adjacent to the north of the enlarged hotel building would set off admirably, just as a suitable farm is complementary and essential to a picture.

The utilitarian aspect of town planning is, of course, highly essential. But while Edmonton has ample space for development, it has no room for the river and the banks of that river lend themselves more freely to beautification than almost any other civic area in the world.

In pursuance of this principle, what would be more logical than for the C.N.R. to take over the site of the burned Blowey warehouse and incorporate it into the development plan?

It is too easy for commercial structures to intrude themselves on river areas. And the final result is usually a landscape to be very simple to allow Edmonton's waterway to become an eyesore instead of planning now to make it one of the most lovely river areas in Canada—as can be done.

Surely the city and the C.N.R., bearing the idea of beautification in mind, can find a fair agreement to the mutual advantage of everyone and particularly of the city as a whole.

Selling Policies Needed

Hon. J. G. Gardiner told parliament that if beef production in Canada is to continue on the present scale, it will require an increase of about 300,000 head of cattle annually in post-war times. It should not have been necessary to remind the members of so obvious a fact, but the fact is that the industry appears to prevail somewhat widely in the House of Commons that post-war spending can be planned on an assured continuance of wartime production.

Everybody would be delighted if that were so, but it is not so. The end of production is the end of the market for production must and does adjust itself to the demand for the products. What is true in the case of beef cattle is true of every other class of farm products, industrial products, and all other kinds of products. In the long run people can only produce what they can consume and sell.

It is up to parliament to make and maintain in advance trade policies which will find buyers of Canadian goods in every country where there is a prospect of selling these in after-war times. For four years there have been markets without limits for industrial products and many varieties of farm products. The condition will come to an end when peace returns. The time to make plans to meet this drastic change in the marketing situation is now.

Another Round-Up

The toll on the southern sector has been suddenly broken by a Russian drive through southern Poland toward Rumania. Berlin agrees that it is on a large scale, and does not challenge Germany's claim that it is making fast headway. Should it succeed, the Nazi forces in the Ukraine would be cut off, without commercial lines or a line of retreat save into Rumania.

Those forces are said to be at least 50,000 strong. They are the remnants of armies that in the last few months ago were battling to hold the lower Dnieper and the iron and manganese mines around Krivoy Rog and Nikopol. The rest have been "liquidated."

In the south, as in the north, the Hitler generals have been making a costly mistake, hoping that the spring thaw would bog down Red Army offensive operations. Instead the endangered Nazis can make a quick getaway and the thaw may also bog them down in the mud of the western Ukraine, with a cordon of Russian troops to the east, north and west.

The Russians are evidently making the best of the remaining winter weather in their attempt to immobilize the army of the enemy positions. Should they succeed, the Cherkassy "pocket" may be repeated on a larger scale in the trap on the Bug River.

Temporary Only

Here and there in Canada there is unemployment. That is inevitable where projects are brought to completion, where munitions plants are closed or have to be converted to other production, and where winter created an abnormal demand for labor. Men who lose their jobs for any of these reasons are not, however, fitted into new jobs without delay. Sometimes they must travel to other parts of the country to find work which they are adapted or which they prefer. A measure of unemployment cannot be avoided in such circumstances.

But the country over there are more jobs than men available to fill them. The prospect is that thousands of men who would rather be at home attending to their families are still needed in industrial and commercial establishments; and thousands of boys and girls who would rather be working at the cost of postponing their studies.

This is the time of year when employment in Canada is normally boom time. With the coming of spring there will be a demand for farm labor in volume greater than the visible supply, building operations will speed up, all sorts of outside occupations will be calling for men.

There is nothing alarming therefore in the fact that in some localities men are temporarily out of work. They need be unemployed no longer than it takes to shift them to places where the demand exceeds the supply. And that is true of every man who is able and willing to work will have steady employment throughout the summer.

There was no truth, it seems, in the Swiss report that Hitler had beheaded Himmler for plotting to replace him. The story never sounded convincing. Himmler is a madman, like the other Nazi bigwigs, but he probably isn't crazy enough to want to step into Hitler's shoes.

Stockholm has been bombed by unidentified planes. Fragments of one bomb are lying Russian markings. The planes were probably German. Mr. Churchill long ago warned that when the fighting drew near to Rome Nazi planes would likely be over the Vatican with bombs carrying British or United States markings.

Having blown most of Germany's plane-building factories to pieces, an air official at London says the next objective of the Luftwaffe is to attack the German cities. The Nazi plane can be caught off the ground. That sounds like a challenge to Herr Goering to send up his luftwaffe, which is probably intended to be. That Goering will do it is doubtful. He has been holding his planes in reserve against the coming of the day when he can take advantage of the conditions at Dunkirk might be reversed.

SIDE GLANCES

By GEORGE V. FERGUSON

LONDON.—The Bishop of Chichester, in condemning the bombing of civilians in the house of lords, ran full into the most violent and ardent passions in this island. But he also headed into the arms of the national and international arguments which are the real basis of the continued assaults by bombs on the Church of England. Let them, Mr. Churchill, please get on with the hearts of Germany. To deal with the hearts of Germany is the least to expect the people of this island over to object to the bombing of Germany.

They have been bombed themselves. They have been bombed by the most bombed boroughs in London, recently raised funds for the purchase of the Fortresses and these were brought to an airfield near the bridge, and were loaded with bombs before a large and admiring crowd. Upon one of these bombs was written by a German seaman: "You asked for it, and now you have it." The German seaman's argument so far as the little man in the street goes.

Mr. Bomber Command, from its soft-soled, imperturbable box, Air Marshal Harris, rightly says to us: "Those kids certainly have got the war spirit—just too hot when it's over they'll want to enjoy peace!"

Premier's Bank of Canada Performance of Duties Could Have Saved Alberta 25 Million in Eight Years

If the Bank of Canada had performed the function for which it had been created, and had tackled the problem of public financing by taking over the public debt of the provinces, and the leading cities, Alberta's debt principal could have been reduced by $25,000,000 in the last eight years, Premier Ernest Manning stated in an address in the legislature Monday in the budget debate.

He said that even at the 1 1/2 per cent discount rate now quoted by the Bank of Canada, the provincial debt could have been decreased by $15,000,000. If the Bank of Canada performed its proper functions, interest would be unnecessary and savings during the last eight years for interest payments could have been applied to the lowering of the provincial debt.

It is charged that opposition members to join with the government in an unanimous resolution of the legislature calling on the Dominion authorities to put the Bank of Canada to its intended use and to solve the problem of public financing once and for all.

On the question of refunding, Mr. Manning said that Hon. N. E. Low, provincial treasurer, has been directed by the cabinet to get the matter settled on a basis that will be like to be able to pay the people of this province, as well as the bondholders.

CONFERENCE PROPOSED
 In a reference to the conclusion of his address to the proposed Dominion-provincial conference (sponsored by the Alberta government) Premier Manning said he expected the legislature to get the conference "Premier Manning said he expected the legislature to get the conference."

He challenged opposition members of the legislature to join in a resolution endorsing to that effect. Mr. Manning's address dealt at length with the province's debt, and the 1944-45 fiscal year. Introduced by the legislature's speaker, Hon. N. E. Low, he later dealt with the province's debt.

Urges Publicity For Education Is Emphasized

Every opportunity should be taken to make the people of this country aware of the need for further expenditures in education, Dr. G. F. McNally, deputy minister of education, said Monday night at the third session of the Adult Education Program of the Guelph School of Education.

Commenting on the documentary film dealing with educational problems in England, viewed by the 60 adult students enrolled in the program, Dr. McNally said there is a need for a great improvement program of schools and an entirely new view on school architecture. One fault of the present system is to build schools which will last for a long time, but which are not adapted to changing times.

Proposal in House

Old School Holiday Period For Cities Held Impractical

A suggestion by opposition members of the Legislature that the former summer holiday period, from July 1 to the Tuesday after Labor Day, be restored for schools in cities and coal mining communities in Alberta, was stated to be impractical by Hon. Solon E. Low, minister of education, when the school holiday question was taken under discussion Monday by the legislative committee of the house.

Pensioners Told Unity Is Needed To Reach Goal

"It is not radicalism, but common, ordinary sense, to demand what is rightfully theirs, members of the Alberta Pensioners' Society, told Monday evening by Angus J. Morrison, M.L.A. for Edmonton.

"Only by achieving can you hope to achieve your goal," he said. "To achieve that goal, you must keep out of petty rivalry. Everyone, continued the speaker, everyone, who, through no fault of his or her own, was unable to work, was entitled to a pension, not "pittance," as they are today.

PITIFUL CONDITION

It was a pitiful condition, he said, to see aged men and women trying to get along on a pension, as they are now doing, and if they could a few pennies, finding themselves penniless.

In referring to the fact that during its short existence, the Alberta Pensioners' Society had made itself felt, Mr. Morrison said it would be a serious error for the organization to be brought into a political party.

"Loving your enemies is mentioned in the Bible, but it does not mean voting for them," he added.

MORE CAN BE DONE

After 1944, no government would say to any organization: "We have heard your representation and we will take it into consideration, he declared. "This country can do more about pensioners than is being done," he said.

There were reactionary forces in Canada that will oppose anything that would advance pensioners, but he said there was opposition at Ottawa when legislation was first introduced.

The speaker urged his listeners to "keep organizing, for in unity there is strength to stay united until justice prevails," he said.

A resolution, sponsored by the pensioners' association, copies of which had already been forwarded to the Hon. J. L. Riley, minister of finance, Ottawa, and also to the Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, was read to the gathering.

The resolution asked that the payment in full be made for that part of the month in which the applicant for old age pension had a birthday, as was the original intent and purpose of the Dominion old age pension act.

INJUSTICE CLAIMED

Withholding that payment, continued the resolution, worked as an injustice on, and penalized the applicant. There was a grave injustice from many of those who had already established their legal status to the pension.

The gathering was entertained by members of the McCauley concert party orchestra, which organization had to date raised about $4,000 for victims of old country bombing.

Taking part as Mac Macdonald, drummer, who acted as master of ceremonies; Frank Adamson, violinist and comedian; Fred Baker, grandmaster artist; and Walter Passmore, pianist.

Edward C. Fisher, president, acted as chairman.

Youngest Student

MR. HAYEN, Conn., March 7. (AP)—Merrill Kenyon Wolf, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Herbert Wolf, Cleveland, O., law- yers, who spoke a complete sentence at the age of four months, has entered Yale—youngest student on record.

Today's INFANTRY

THE INFANTRY "RIDES TO WORK" ON OCCASION—THIS WAR IS DIFFERENT!

TRUCK TRANSPORT

Those brawny legs the infantry used in the last war are still one of the prime assets of the infantry today. But now they are complemented with equally resilient rubber tires on big, heavy-duty transporting trucks. The use of transport trucks for long hauls has turned the infantry into storm troopers, striking hard at one spot, shifting quickly and dealing a vital blow in another section of the enemy's defenses.

Too, the trucks are used as a means of rapidly deploying a company of infantry across a wide front. The men drop off the vehicle at spaced intervals while it lurches across the uneven terrain. They land ready to fight, preparing their advance under protective camouflage of swirling clouds of smoke. Their attack will be deadly, equipped as they are with several types of rapid-fire weapons, machine guns and light artillery. They are Shock Troops in every sense of the word.

Premier Ernest Manning Says Dominion Requires Uncontrolled Parliament

Needed in Canada today above everything is a parliament which is not muzzled, shackled and controlled by the financial overlords and the vested interests, Premier Ernest Manning said in an address here Monday night.

"We need a parliament of honest, trustworthy men, for all schools, to ensure security in the matter of questions, and also the question of organization, state to mark exam papers, that to be taken into consideration. This latter point is being understood, the minister added, and he said the question of school grants was also involved in the matter.

The minister told of a survey of the province which showed that the number of students in some 14,746 students in intermediate and high schools in Calgary, Lethbridge and other districts, 37,678 had done agricultural work in the last summer.

In addition to this number, 9,708 had done other types of work, Mr. Manning said.

J. Percy Page (Ind. Edmonton) introduced a "strong error" existed in the figures presented by Mr. Low, as they had been prepared in the fall of the year, when school enrollment is generally higher than at other times of the year.

FACTORS CONSIDERED

Replying, the minister said that these factors had been taken into consideration in announcing the results of the survey.

The Edmonton member said he would like to see the old school year brought back, but that he was not in favor of two school years. He suggested that the schools reopen at the usual time in September, and that students who remained on farms for harvest work have given credit for the period so far learning.

Mr. Low said this plan had been put out in 1942, and it had been found to work against students, who returned to school to find themselves far behind others who started at the beginning of the year.

The minister compared this situation with the results of the delayed opening of 1942, when less than 100 students stayed out of school when the term opened. He said that the government had a good opportunity for all students when they started their work.

The U.S. Employment Service has found 188 different jobs suitable for women in war industries.

LAFF A DAY

A land in which the beautiful production of our farms, factories and coastal waters will be equitably distributed and enjoyed by all Canadians, instead of being shogled "to keep up prices" or serve the selfish ambitions of some vested interests.

A land in which every Canadian citizen will have a home of his own, and he can be proud instead of the haves, haves not and shacks that have disgraced our national life. In short a land in which honor, agency, justice, and a high ethical code will govern our political, economic and commercial affairs.

That, is the kind of Canada for which our men, our women, our children, are fighting. That is the kind of Canada which they want. That is the kind of Canada which every fair-minded Canadian wants to see established. My plea tonight is for each and every one of you to take up the challenge and to resolve that you will do your part to make this the Canada of your hopes and aspirations. For this can be done only by the united action of all of us. Common action to that end, each and every one of us.

It is the issue of whether after the war the people of Canada be

Five Beaver Limit

For 1944 Trapping

Only five beavers, instead of 10 as in 1943, may be taken by a registered trapper in one specified area in the north of the province, it is stated in an order-in-council passed by the government.

The trapping is to be permitted north of Township 104, the southern boundary of which is 24 miles north of Keg River settlement. This is the same territory in which beaver could be trapped last year, and is the only part of the province in which it is to be allowed.

The trapping season will be open from April 1 to May 15 inclusive. Pelts taken must be taken to a game guardian or an officer of the B.C. M.P. before June 1 to be sealed, before they can be marketed.

The order-in-council notes that an open season on beaver exists in Wood Buffalo Park, in British Columbia, and in the Northwest Territories, and that a closed season in Alberta would result in a legal trade of pelts taken in Alberta, as well as a certain amount of hardship for trappers in the area.

Find Two Persons Being Sought Here

Two of five persons, concerning whom inquiries were made last week by the bureau of missing persons, were located, while two more were sought Monday by police to be dead.

Frank Rhy, sought by his sister, Mrs. Rhy, of the Lehigh Valley, N.Y., was said to be a resident of Edmonton; Mr. Thomas, a resident of Regina, was said to be a resident of Regina.

The late Mr. Brown, and Mrs. Brown, were being sought by the police. Sgt. John B. Brown, R.A.Y., said that the two persons were being sought by the police.

A fourth person whom whom information was being sought, was said to be a resident of Regina, and was being sought by the police.

A fifth person, Fred Vale, listed as missing, has not yet been located, police stated.

Our national problems, by a little co-operation, compromise and effort.

We do not mean to explain just what has to be done in order to start organizing your constituency and in organizing your constituency, to get the national convention.

The first rule is not to leave the job to the other fellow. Remember that if you want democracy and all the good things that go with it, you must accept your share of the responsibility of a responsible citizen. You must contribute your share of the effort which will be required to get the kind of post-war Canada which we want. Therefore, let me repeat: don't leave this job to the other fellow or it won't be done. Make it your business to take action in the matter; don't wait for someone else to do it.

QUESTIONS

Make inquiries in your locality to find out whether a Social Credit group exists in your area. If it has, get into it and pull your weight. If there is no group, organize one. The National Social Credit Convention, Office 91 Yonge Street, Toronto.

When you are writing for parties, ask for information about Social Credit for group study and also ask for a copy of the Social Credit weekly paper, "Today and Tomorrow." You will find that we have more to say in a minute.

While you are waiting for replies, contact with many interested persons as possible and form a group. Talk to your friends and neighbors and encourage them to talk to others.

Immediately you receive particulars of the national convention, call these persons together, and make arrangements for choosing your delegate and for raising a fund to send him to the convention. Some pep and enthusiasm into your effort.

NATIONAL POLICY

At this meeting or subsequent meetings you should give full consideration to the national policy which you want your delegate to support at the convention. Your provincial organization may have suggestions to make in this respect. You will have ideas of your own. Discuss these fully; come to definite decisions and be sure that coming to these decisions you are guided by what the people as a whole want—not merely by your own opinions or by the desires of a few individuals.

Before I conclude, let me summarize. The National Social Credit convention is being held in Toronto. If you have not already arranged to attend, please make arrangements to delay another day. The steps are simple.

Write for full particulars to the National Social Credit convention, Office 91 Yonge Street, Toronto.

While awaiting replies, get in touch with as many interested persons as you can.

When you receive the necessary information about the national convention, call together these persons, form a Social Credit action group, and make arrangements for choosing a delegate to the convention.

That is all I have to say. I have placed the facts before you plainly. The issue is now in your hands. Today, as never before, Canada expects that every sincere man and woman will do his or her part to make a better Canada. Grant that we shall rise to what is required of each and all of us. I am satisfied that if the people of Canada face the facts and are willing to courage revolution, and act according to the dictates of their own convictions and conscience, we need have no fear for the future of our nation.
